A: Toad is a company that sells automotive diagnostic software for cars. They created toad pro and toad lite. As others have noted they are both the same software, they have the same features, and they cost the same. It is likely the software costs the same, only the name has changed because pro is more expensive. Toad is a company with at least a 30 year history. They have other products and they are very well know and trusted in the automotive industry. Johan Bråkenhielm the Younger Johan Bråkenhielm the Younger (Swedish: Joachim Bråkenhielm) (14 July 1587 – 7 February 1636) was a Swedish statesman, Count of Askersund, Lord of Vlotho and Lord of Gedin. He was the son of Johan Bråkenhielm the Elder and Katarina Stenbock. He was married to Karin Gyllenstierna in 1616 and Vasa at l'Argenteuil in 1636.
